

Edited by HEATHER LOWRIE

TRAVEL

● FOODIES will be flocking to the island of Guernsey next month for the new 'The Big Eat Guernsey' festival celebrating the island's rich culinary culture.

The month-long festival will run twice a year, in April and October, and will take place across all the islands including Alderney, Sark, Herm, and smaller islets.

Local eateries will offer set menus, specially crafted for the festival, that showcase Guernsey's finest ingredients, including dairy and seafood. See thebigeatguernsey.com.